Hindu marriage is not only just the union of soulmates but it also unites their respective families together. The red and gold colour is the preferred color for this occasion where the bride wears Red Saree or a Lehenga, while the groom wears a sherwani. Janam Kundli of the couple is the most important ritual performed with the help of the priest before marriage, Kundali match is established on the arrangement of the stars and planets at the time of birth. The nuptials festivities can take up to one week depending on the procedure in different parts of India.

Hindu Marriage

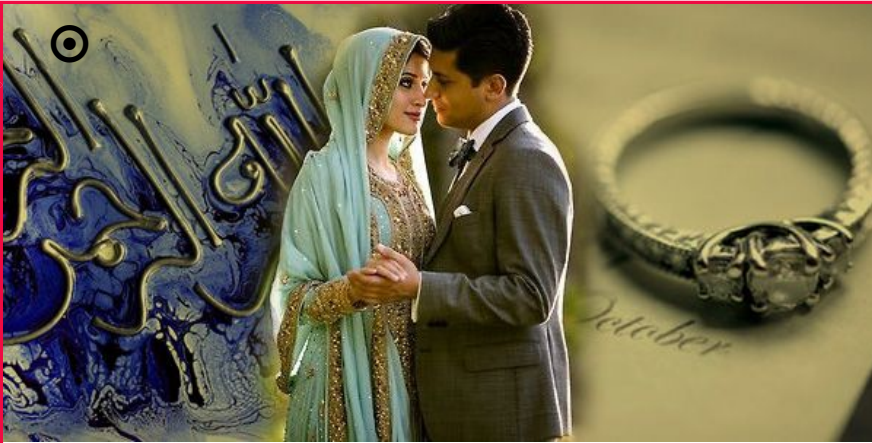

Christians believe that marriage is an essential example of love given by God when he made Adam and Eve. In Christianity, the priest invites the assemblage, the couple exchange their vows before God to ensure each other to love faithfully and wholeheartedly as long as the two of them shall live, after exchanging the rings, they become husband and wife. The lady and man of the hour, alongside witnesses, sign the register, which is a legitimate document and after this they get legally bound to each other as a man and woman.

Weddings ceremony in Islam is termed as NIKAH which is an Arabic word. Marriages in Islam binds a man and a woman through a legitimate contract (on paper or verbal), where both the bride and the groom are supposed to assent to the marriage of their independent wills. A very significant condition in Islamic marriage is the requirement of QUBUL of the bride, groom and the custodian (called Wali) of the bride. There is also a ritual of giving Mahr (which is different from the dowry). This is mandatory in a Muslim marriage, where the mahr is paid to the bride from the groom for the bride's exclusive use.
